BE COURTEOUS.

But Don't Make Undignified Mistakes.

He was a great swell, one of the affable, polite kind, who had worked all his life to get the reputation of knowing everybody. He prided himself on his tact, and flattered himself he knew exactly the degree of familiarity to extend to any given degree of life. He was a great card in the best society. He never made any mistakes; when he was not quite sure who it might be he relied upon his instinct.

He was walking in great state down the street, and a quiet, respectable-looking man, a man with a solid kind of business air about him, was coming up. He remembered his face; he was sure he knew him, and he did not want to be impolite. The man looked at him as if the recognition was mutual.

That was enough. When he did anything he did it with all his heart. He stepped and held out his hand and his grasp was full of cordiality.

"How do you do? Haven't seen you in an age. You are looking well. Where are you located now?"

"Same places—butler at Mrs. McGee's."—San Francisco Chronicle.

A Timely Suggestion.

"Bobby," said his mother, sternly, "I punished you only last week for running away, and yet you have done it again to-day. I don't know what I shall do."

"Why not give up punishing me, ma," suggested Bobby, "it doesn't seem to do any good?"

Time To Close Up.

She was sitting in the parlor with her beau when the old man came down stairs and opened the front door.

"Surely, papa," she said, "you are not going out at this late hour?"

"Merely to untie the dog," he replied.

"Well, Miss Ciara," said the young man, reaching for his hat, "I think I will say good night.

What Whisky Costs.

Whisky is expensive. It costs a man dollars and sense.—Yonkers Statesman.

Where She Was Weighed.

"Oh, Henry! you must send for the doctor at once. I believe I am getting the dropsy. Now don't delay a moment."

Mr. De Blank: "Why, what put that idea into your head."

"Dear me! Will you never be satisfied that what I say is true? I got weighed to-day, and, oh, it's awful, I weighed 300 pounds!"

"Awful! Where did you get weighed?"

"Around at your coal yard."

"Calm yourself, my dear. Your weight is exactly 150 pounds."—[Montreal Witness.

Too Much Chicory.

Mrs. Samuelson, of Dallas, recently hired a colored woman who had no previous experience in cooking. She was so ignorant that she didn't even know how to make tea, so Mrs. S. told her to make it as she did coffee, meaning for her to put the tea in the boiling water.

When the tea came on the table it was simply horrible.

"What have you been doing with this tea?"

"I done as yer tole me. Yer tole me ter make it as I did de coffee, but I b'leeves I put too much of de chicory."—[Texas Siftings.

For Ladies Only.

Ladies' magazines impart a wonderful amount of valuable information.

Here is one that says "a woman's hair should be bathed so as to look wavy and fleecy like a mermaid's tresses." Next time a young lady encounters a mermaid, let her carefully examine the water nymph's tresses, and then she will know how her hair should look. Beware of counterfeits.

Not a Sickly Youth.

"Did your son take the valedictory in college?" said a gentleman to a lady who was enthusiastically praising the ability of her offspring.

"No, indeed, he didn't," she replied with pride; "he didn't take anything. He is the healthiest boy you ever saw."—Washington Critic.

WEDDED.

Some cruel and bitter words we said,
And then we parted. How the sun
Shone through the sullen mist of gray!
A still fire on the summer day.
The sweet and happiest hours were done;
Friendship was dead.

How gaunt we went on our separate ways,
And spoke no word and made no moan!
She braided up her flowing hair
That I had always called so fair,
Although she scorned my loving tone,
My word of praise.

And I—I watched her scorn with scorn;
I hated her with all my heart,
Until we chanced to meet one day;
She turned her pretty head away;
I saw the pretty tear drops start;
Lo! love was born.

Some fond, repenting word I said;
She answered only with a sigh;
But when I took her hand in mine
A radiant glory, half divine,
Flooded the earth and filled the sky:
Now we are wed.

VEGETABLE OR ANIMAL DIET?

Our Teeth as They Suggest the Food We Should Eat.

As regards the teeth, it must be admitted that in relation to the subject in hand they literally and truly cut both ways. In the complete set of 32 there are 20 for grinding, 8 for biting, and 4 for tearing.

Grinding teeth are required for animals which live on grains and other hard vegetable substances; biting teeth are necessary for animals which nibble soft substances like grasses and some fruits; tearing teeth are essential for animals which actually tear tough and resistant structures, like flesh, to pieces.

In man the grinding teeth largely preponderate, and how well fitted these teeth are for grinding seeds, grains, acorns, and the like, the teeth of our very old forefathers tell a significant and true tale.

In man the biting teeth have a conspicuous place and a very decisive function; with them, even to the present, the skilled biter can cut through the finest thread, a feat equivalent to dividing the most delicate filament of food fibre that grows from the earth. The teeth are vegetable weapons; they are the best of weapons which the out-and-out vegetarian can use; they assist him both in practice and argument.

But then there remain those four tearing fangs, those canine or dog's teeth, so firm, strong, and savage. The canine or tearing teeth stand out strikingly in favor of the view that man is formed for eating flesh; but it cannot be said by the stanchest flesh eater that the flesh-eating tendency is the strongest altogether. No; it is certain that the balance turns fairly the other way.

It may, however, be argued, that very fact of the existence of only four tearing teeth gives countenance to the belief that nature has supplied the human animal with fangs for devouring animal flesh if he is obliged or desirous so to do. This is true, but only to a limited extent, because we now know that even the teeth, firm as they are, become, by constant habit of life, changed in form and character.

The canine tooth itself, even in the dog, has been exceptionally so modified from this cause as to lead to a characteristic type of structure indicative of the influence of manner of life on growth when extended through many generations.—Richardson in Longman's Magazine.

SHOOTING THE BURGLAR.

How a Young Man Was Effectually Cured of Dissipation.

A well-known young man of this city, who will recognize himself as the hero of this thrilling tale, shot and mortally wounded a large and expensive pier glass in his father's parlor.

He came in very late (after an unsuccessful effort to unlock the front door with his umbrella) through an unfastened coal-hole in the sidewalk. Coming to himself toward daylight, he found himself—spring overcoat, silk hat, "jag" and all—stretched out in the bath-tub.

With some little difficulty he reached his room, and was just about to light the gas with his night key, when he heard a suspicious sound on the lower floor. Convinced that it was burglars he wended his somewhat tortuous way to a table near by and took from the drawer his loaded revolver. He made noise enough going down stairs to have announced his coming to a deaf man, but finally reached the parlor door and crept through the doorway on all fours.

In the middle of the room he rose to his knees, then to his feet. A dark figure rose simultaneously in front of him. As the young man raised his pistol the morning twilight bashed on a gleaming weapon in the hand of the other.

"Hol' on, mic! m'fren!" the young man exclaimed. "I've gic! got sh' drob on you!"

The pistol flashed simultaneously; the house rang with a loud report, and a crash of glass instantly followed it.

When the startled family reached the spot the brave scion of the house of —— sat on the floor amid the debris, carefully examining himself in search of wounds, while a smile of righteous triumph shone in his face.

"I bic! broughd 'm down!" he murmured.

When he discovered that his deadly bullet had obliterated his own reflection in the big parlor mirror, his triumph grew beautifully less, and he then and there swore off, "for good and all," he says.—Albany Journal.

Retiring from Business.

Young woman (blushing violently—) "Are you the gentleman who has charge of the advertising department of the paper, sir?"

Clerk—"Yes, miss; what can I do for you?"

Young woman—"I—er—want to advertise—a—a second-hand type-writer for sale. I shall have no further use for it."—Tid-Bits.

Going by Smoke.

Two girls sat in a car a few evenings ago.

"We won't have to ride in these kind of cars any more, after awhile," said one. "We're going to have electric cars here."

"Is that so?" queried No. 2. "How do they go, by steam or by smoke?"

"I don't know," replied No. 1, "but I think they go by smoke."—Buffalo Express.

THE SHORT PERSON.

Various Vicissitudes Which Invariably Come to the Man of Few Inches.

The short man has suffered much at the hands of the writers of fiction. He is never allotted the part of the hero, though there is no valid reason why he should not be. Search through all the fiction you like, and look up the heroes: They are all tall, every one of them, no matter whether they be black, blue, gray or tawny. This is what you read:

"His tall presence overshadowed and protected her as the pine of the Appenines does the strayed or bewildered lamb," or "His form, far above the middle height appeared before her in the moonlight and she knew that, whatever else happened, that she was his forever and ever."

It is only a realistic writer who condescends to have the hero of the "average height," and even he is apt to forget himself and make his hero grow, after he is long past twenty-one, into a "towering form."

There is a special brand of humanity kept on tap for heroes, all of them men who would have delighted the heart of Frederick the Great, who is quite welcome to them for all we care. On the other hand, the writer, when he has an unsympathetic character to portray nearly always makes him short.

Look at the "rascally attorney"; he is always made an "undersized" man, though there is no reason why he should be. And the writer, forsooth, never makes his really respectable villain—the man who does the bold murders, the kidnappings and the big forgeries—particularly short; only those of his villains are short who are mean and contemptible curs. This is distinctly unfair.

It is hardly necessary to add that the same writer when he wants a butt for the exercise of his wit, or for his other characters to play tricks upon, takes a short man for the purpose. It is always a short man who is fool enough to fall in love with the heroine, without the ghost of a chance, and who is cut out if not kicked out, directly the hero appears; his blasted hopes are made to look ridiculous, and after a humorous attempt at suicide he is relegated for consolation to brandy and soda.—Liverpool Courier.

A CONGREGATION IMPRISONED.

Hint to Ministers Troubled with a Restless Flock.

Some years ago the pastor of a church in a rural district of Missouri shepherded a flock some members of which were in the habit of leaving the house while he was yet in the middle of a discourse. This was an eyesore to the visiting incumbent, and when one day a reverend brother volunteered to preach for him he felt called upon to speak of the annoyance.

"Oh, I'll stop that," was the reply. I'll warrant you that no one leaves until I'm done."

Accordingly, when he arose to speak he introduced his sermon with the following:

"My friends, before I begin my sermon I wish to make a few not irrelevant remarks. You all know that even the vessel when full is full, and that to continue to pour into it is folly. Some vessels are capable of holding a great deal, while others, again, are easily filled. So it is with men's heads, and it is possible that some of yours may become full before I'm through. If so, I want you to feel at perfect liberty to leave."

The sermon lasted an hour and a quarter, but not a mortal stirred!

"Do you know," said a young man afterwards, "I had a team of restless young horses outside, but I wouldn't have gone out to look after them for $100!"

RAISE YOUR OWN FROGS.

The Way To Make Money by Farming the Delicious Croaker.

Any man who has a pond on his farm can try the experiment of raising his own frogs. First, let him buy, say, six pairs of fine New Jersey breeders and dump them into the water. With these for a starter you may select a quantity of domestic bactracean, and then you will have the nucleus of a fortune. Don't interfere with your water investment for a year any more than to keep your growing stock well supplied with food. They require an abundance, but as they are not very dainty in their taste the expense account will be light. For a young farm two barrels a day of hotel scraps will keep the frogs in splendid shape, so that at the end of twelve months you can begin marketing all you can fish out at the same price as spring chickens. Give me the time, and I will wager that the end of two years I will be living on an income of $5,000, and my frogs will pay all expenses.—St. Louis Globe Democrat.

Origin of Foolscap.

Everybody knows what foolscap paper is, but we doubt whether one in a hundred of those who use it can tell why it is so called.

When Oliver Cromwell became Protector of England he caused the stamp of the "Caps of Liberty" to be placed upon the paper used by the Government.

Soon after the restoration of Charles II., when he had occasion to use some paper for dispatches, some of this Government paper was brought to him; and on being told he said:

"Take it away; I'll have nothing to do with a fool's cap."

Thus originated the term "foolscap," which has since been given to a size of writing paper usually about 16x13 inches.

Philosophical Housemaid.

"No," said the housemaid, "I don't apologize to a man when I throw a bucket of water down the front steps to wash 'em, and he comes along and gets drenched. I've tried apologizing, but I've found there's nothing you can say to a man in that case will satisfy him."—Scranton Truth.

"These Three Are One."

"Who is that lady dressed in black, mamma?" asked Bobby, as he sat with his mother on a ferryboat.

"That is a Sister of Charity, my boy," replied his mother.

Bobby pondered deeply for a moment and then he said, "Which is she, mamma, Faith or Hope?"—Harper's Bazar.

A Child's Pretty Conceit.

The little child was walking in the woods one summer evening when the softest of evening breezes were waving the foliage:

"Hark, mamma! Listen to the trees breathing," she said.

THE MYSTERY EXPLAINED.

A New Illustration of an Old Weakness in Human Nature.

There was quite a little sensation in the little village of D—— one Monday morning, Cousin Mattie being the innocent cause of it.

Mrs. L., with whom she was passing a few days, was a lively, agreeable, though not young, widow, who owned a very pretty cottage near the lake, and was much of a favorite in the village. On the morning referred to she went out early, as was her usual custom, to attend to the little wants of the day. She was soon greeted by Deacon Jones with:

"Good morning, Mrs. L., I did not see you at church yesterday."

"I am glad you missed me, Deacon, but I had a severe headache."

"That is certainly a good excuse," he replied with a peculiar smile on his face.

A little further on she met Mrs. D.

"Ah! good morning, Mrs. L. You are out bright and early, and looking very happy this morning."

"Is that anything unusual?" replied the widow, as she passed on to market.

The vender of pork and chops came smilingly forward.

"What can I do for you? We have some fine chickens and ducks, etc."

"No, thank you. I will have my simple Monday dinner."

"Nothing more? I thought you might want something extra to-day."

"Why to-day?" mused the widow, as she walked out. "It seems to me every one looks at me in a peculiar manner. Ah, here comes neighbor Pope, if there is anything afloat I shall get it now."

"I hardly expected to see you out so early this morning," Mrs. Pope began.

"Why not?"

"Oh, when one has visitors late at night, you know. I do hope we are not going to lose you."

"I do not understand you."

"Oh, but how innocent we are, but Polly Brown saw him."

"Saw whom?" replied the widow, her usually serene temper beginning to be a little ruffled.

"Your gentleman visitor as she passed your house late last night. She had been up to sit awhile with the sick baby, as Mrs. Jones was not well. She was well enough to go to church in the morning and wear her new bonnet, but as I said, quite last night she peeped into your window and saw you seated quite near together and looking very happy, or at least you were—she could not see his face, as he was seated with his back to the window. A large man, and, no doubt, fine looking, to please you, but a very bald head."

An amused smile stole over the widow's face as she said:

"Tell Polly Brown when she peeps into her neighbor's windows she had better put on her spectacles."

A few minutes afterwards she walked into her cosy sitting-room, and quietly remarked:

"Cousin Mattie, you had better draw down the shade to-night before you take off your chignon."

THE TABLE FORK.

This Now Indispensable Implement a Modern Invention.

It is difficult to realize what a modern invention the table fork is. Queen Elizabeth never heard of one. She had, it is true, a few dainty forks, perchance with crystal handles, for eating preserved fruit at dessert. But long after her time dinner forks were unknown in England.

The very earliest now to be found are not older than the middle of the reign of Charles II.

The few early forks of the reign of George I. are three-pronged, and but few of our neighbors can show us four-pronged forks much before the reign of George III., from which time their fashion has remained unaltered to the present day, except for their handles, which have followed the fashion of spoons, finishing up with the familiar "fiddle pattern" of nineteenth century use.

Before the days of forks the ewer and basin, which have now generally disappeared, were much in request after every course, whereas now the basin alone, with a little rose-water, makes its appearance at civic feasts after dinner, as a matter of fashion rather than necessity.

Four out of five fine old basins have no doubt been melted up to supply the very forks whose invention rendered the washing of the fingers superfluous.—Murray's Magazine.

Bunco Women.

The bunco women of New York are more dangerous perhaps to what is familiarly termed the hayseed element of visitors from out of town than even the bunco man himself.

Passengers in a Broadway car were surprised shortly after a venerable-looking gentleman with a hoary yellow beard and a shrewd, curious eye got on the car, to see a loudly dressed and very wideawake woman turn with a bewildered look and say to him:

"I am a stranger in the city, sir, and am afraid I may lose my way. Won't you kindly tell me where I am."

Flattered beyond expression at being mistaken for a city man, the venerable one from the country smiled and told the distressed damsel that she had "just passed the post-office." That was where the old man had gotten on, and he knew that one locality in town.

Profuse thanks followed, and the foundation of a roguish conversation was laid. When the wideawake damsel got off the car, the old man followed her.

Chinese Logic.

A gentleman who is visiting town for a few days carried to a "heathen Chinese" of laundry proclivities a bundle of linen which he wished to have washed within a short time.

The washerman took the package and promised that it should be ready for Tuesday evening. The stranger was unable to call on Tuesday, but on Wednesday he presented himself and asked for his linen, only to be told that it was not ready.

"Not ready!" he returned impatiently. "Why, you promised to have it ready last night."

"Yes," the Chinaman answered with a smile as child-like and bland as his language was unreproducible in print, "but you didn't come after it last night."

"Were it possible for every voter of the Republic to see for himself the condition and recompense of labor in Europe, the party of free-trade in the United States would not receive the support of one wage-worker between the two oceans."—JAMES G. BLAINE.

Henry A. Caulfield, one of the best known residents of Sacramento, was instantly killed by a locomotive on Monday evening. He was on his way home, walking on the track when he was overtaken by the suburban train, running at the rate of twelve miles an hour. He was caught just beyond a curve, having no time to escape. While he had been in innumerable shooting and cutting scrapes, in which he had been badly butchered, brought on through attempts to rob him of his property in Sacramento, which city has been, and is filled with land sharks, he was a good man at heart, a true friend, and a dangerous, but brave, enemy. Sacramento to-day contains many a prominent citizen who is not as good a man as Caulfield was.

The Supreme Court of this State has adjourned for a vacation until September 3d, and most of the Judges have already skipped to the country. This Court has been redeeming itself recently in rendering sensible decisions and not allowing quibbles to thwart Justice in cases in which the people of the whole State feel an interest. In June the Court disposed of 101 cases, the greatest number ever disposed of in one month by any Supreme Court in the United States. The election of Patterson, McFarland and Temple gave new life to that Court.

Ex-State Senator James O'Brien has written a letter to Samuel J. Randall describing the danger to the Democratic party existing in the Mills bill. The passage of the bill, he intimates, means the idleness of many workmen, who will revolt against Cleveland and the Democratic party. O'Brien has long been a prominent local Democratic politician in New York, and is supposed to know of what he is talking.

A Democratic orator at Galt, Sacramento county, named Wm. Whitney, at a meeting last week, said he hoped to see Jeff. Davis crowned with a silver crown. A Union soldier, who resented the insult, was called a liar, for which Whitney had his "chops" slapped.

The St. Louis Globe-Democrat says:—Eight years ago Levi P. Morton fitted out the ship Constellation with food for the starving people of Ireland. This benefaction, which undoubtedly saved many lives, cost the donor about $50,000.

Judge O. P. Stidger, a Pioneer and editor of the San Juan Times, died at North San Juan, Nevada county, on the 2d, of heart disease. The Judge was a well-known and influential Republican, and was 74 years of age.

Walter Cummings, Judge of the Municipal Court, Wilmington, Delaware, has placed mortgages amounting to $86,000, on property assessed for only $4,452! Smart people in Wilmington.

It looks as though San Francisco was to have another smallpox epidemic. New cases seem to be developing daily.

The mother and sister of Maxwell, the murderer, have arrived at St. Louis from England, and had an affecting meeting with him on Monday. They will apply to the Governor for a pardon.

W. T. Coleman & Co's assets are $1,000,000 less than first reported.

"PROTECTION" THE MORE IMPORTANT.

The Democratic press, both of high and low degree, daily and weekly teem with falsehoods regarding Senator Harrison's votes on the Chinese question. They are great sticklers for the "Constitution" and "laws," but when a Senator of the United States, of an opposite party, votes on a question in accordance with the spirit and meaning of that "Constitution" and the "laws" of the country, he is abused and his record falsified to further the ends of political opponents. Not a Democratic paper, that we have seen, has the manliness and honesty to publish Senator Harrison's remarks in explanation of his votes in the Senate on the Chinese Restrict on bills Not one has informed its "intelligent readers" that Senators Harrison and Sherman prepared and reported to the Senate, which passed it at once without debate, the best Restriction Act ever introduced in Congress; and that when it reached the Democratic House it was referred to the appropriate Committee, of which Belmont, the Democratic aristocrat from New York, was Chairman; and they do not inform the people of California who may, perchance, read such papers, that this Democrat, Belmont, pocketed the bill and refused to report it back to the House for final passage, on the plea that Secretary Bayard was negotiating a Chinese Treaty which would settle the whole question, which plea was found to be false, no such move having been made, the plea having been concocted to defeat the bill; and in the face of that lie the House adjourned without granting California the relief prayed for. Californians are too intelligent not to know that President Cleveland and Secretary Bayard are not in sympathy with our people on this Chinese question. It is well known that not long ago a Californian, in an interview with President Cleveland regarding the Chinese, was asked by the President if he did not think the Chinese could be educated up to the American standard of civilization, and really intimated that Californians were "too hard" on the Celestials. The interview, as telegraphed to this coast showed plainly that President Cleveland is inclined toward the Chinese interest. In the Democratic platform it is intimated that this great question has been permanently settled by our wise and sympathetic Democratic Administration; but since Harrison's nomination the Democratic politicians and press tell the country it is not settled, and that we will be overrun by the Heathens, if Harrison is elected. Such demagogism is a disgrace to that party, but natural withal. The Democratic editors of this State must have an exalted opinion of the intelligence of the readers of their papers if they think the bosh they are publishing about "Harrison's Chinese Record" will injure him on this Coast. It is not a fight now over the Chinese, but on the Republican doctrine of "Protection to American labor," and the Democratic one of "Free Trade;" whether the people of the United States prefer to foster the manufacturing interests of America, or of England. The mechanics, artisans, and all wage-earners of the country are alive to the great question so prominently brought before the american people through Cleveland's Free Trade message to Congress and which has brought about a square fight between the importers of foreign goods in New York and Boston and the manufacturers of England on the one side, and the American workingmen on the other—and the latter will win.

Mrs. Whitney, they say, is tired of Washington life. Well, the 4th of March will be around in time, when she can retire to a more private life.

On the Fourth the Republican Committee, of which Hon. M. M Estee was Chairman, formally notified General Harrison of his nomination.

The grand stand at Water Valley, Miss., collapsed with 400 people on it on the Fourth. A large number were injured, but none killed.

A balloon party dropped into Boston Harbor on the evening of the Fourth.—They were all rescued by a tug.

Two Ways. Choose Which!

There are two usual ways of doing what Nature sometimes does incompletely, namely, to relieve the bowels. One is to swallow a drastic purgative which evacuates profusely, abruptly and with pain, the other is to take Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, the effect of which is not violent, but sufficiently thorough, and which does not gripe the intestines. If the first is selected, the person employing it need not expect permanent benefit, and he cannot hope to escape the debilitating reaction which leaves the organs as bad or worse off than before. If, on the other hand, he resorts to the Litters, he can rely upon the restorat on of a regular habit of body, consequent upon a renewal of a healthful tone in the intestinal canal. Besides beneficially relaxing the bowels, the Bitters arouses a dormant liver, imparts a beneficial impetus to the action of the kidneys, and counteracts the early twinges of rheumatism, a tendency to gout, and malaria in all its forms.

LEGAL.

NOTICE OF SALE OF REAL AND PERSONAL ESTATE OF WARD, BY GUARDIAN, AT PUBLIC AUCTION.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN THAT, IN PURsuance of an order of the Superior Court of the County of Mono, State of California, duly made and entered on the 18th day of April, 1888, in the matter of the Estate and Guardianship of Lloyd Goodnow, an incompetent person, the undersigned, the guardian of the person and estate of the said Lloyd Goodnow, will sell at public auction to the highest bidder, for cash, gold coin of the United States of America, and subject to confirmation by said Superior Court, on MONDAY, THE 9TH DAY OF JULY, 1888, at the hour of Eleven (11) o'clock A. M., at the residence of said ward, Lloyd Goodnow in Antelope Valley, Mono county, California, known as and called "Doctor Goodnow's Station," situate on "Goodnow's Toll Road" and about 2 miles from the town of Coleville in said county, all the real and personal property of said ward hereinafter fully described, and all the right, title, interest, and estate of the said Lloyd Goodnow, and all the right, title and interest that the said estate may, by operation of law or otherwise, acquire other than or in addition to that of the said Lloyd Goodnow at the present time, in and to all those certain lots, pieces or parcels of land situate, lying and being in said Mono county, State of California, and hereinafter particularly described, and said real estate will be sold either in one parcel or in subdivisions, as the said guardian shall judge most beneficial to said estate. The following is the real estate above referred to and which will be so sold as aforesaid, to wit, Those certain tracts and parcels of lands situate in Antelope Valley, Mono county, California, and particularly described and known as follows: The E. ½ of the S. W. ¼ of Section 7 and the E. ½ of the N. W. ¼ of Section 18, all in T. 8 N., R. 23 E., M. D. B. & M. in the district of lands subject to sale at Independence, California, containing 160 acres, with the improvements thereon; also the fractional W. ½ of the N. W. ¼ of Section 18 and the fractional S. W. ¼ of S. W. ¼ of Section 7, all in T. 8 N., R. 23 E., M. D. B. & M., containing one hundred and nine and 2-100 (109.02) acres, with the improvements thereon. Also that tract of land commencing at the South East corner of N. W. ¼ of Section 7, T. 8 N., R. 23 E., M. D. B. and M., and running along said quarter section line 4 rods, more or less, to the fence situated between the original land claims of Harney & Goodnow, thence in a southwesterly direction along the line of said fence 160 rods, more or less, to the section line; thence due south 22 rods, more or less, to the southwest corner of said quarter section; thence due east 160 rods to the place of beginning, also all of the N. W. ¼ of the S. W. ¼ of said Section 7 last named, containing in the aggregate 75 acres more or less, with the improvements thereon.

Also the S. ½ of the S. E. ¼ of Section 7, T. 8 N., R. 23 E., M. D. B. & M., containing 80 acres more or less, together with the improvements thereon.

Also the N. E. ¼ of S. E. ¼ of Section 13, T. 8 N., R. 22 E., M. D. B. & M., containing 40 acres, with the improvements thereon. All of the above described and foregoing tracts of land are adjoining tracts and together form one continuous body, containing in the aggregate 464 2 100 acres and are known as and commonly called and constitute the "Goodnow Ranch."

The following ditches and water rights and claims are appurtenant and appendant to said above described "Goodnow Ranch," and are used and enjoyed in connection with the same, viz: That certain ditch, together with the water right and claim appendant and appurtenant thereto, and used therewith, situate and being in said Antelope Valley, said ditch commencing at the point of diversion on the West Walker River about one-half mile in a south easterly direction from the said residence of said Lloyd Goodnow, and running thence to the said ranch of said Lloyd Goodnow, upon which his said home residence is situated, and the water right connected and enjoyed with said ditch consists of the right to use and divert by means of said ditch 500 inches of the water of said river, measured under a four inch pressure, for agricultural purposes, said ditch being 2½ feet wide at the bottom, 4 feet wide at the top and 18 inches deep. Said ditch and water right being the same described in the location notice of the same, a copy of which is duly recorded in Book "B" of Pre-Emption claims at page 169 Records of Mono county, State of California, and for a more particular description of the same reference is hereby made to said record.

Also all the right, title and interest of said Lloyd Goodnow of, in and to the waters flowing in that certain creek (name unknown) which flows from the lower end of Little Antelope Valley, in Mono Co., Cal., by and near the South Antelope School House and the old Shaw place or house, together with the ditch, dug, constructed and used for the purpose of conveying the waters of said creek on to the lands and premises of said Lloyd Goodnow, above described and known as the Goodnow Ranch in Antelope Valley, Mono Co., Cal.

Also the right, title and interest of said Lloyd Goodnow of, in and to the waters flowing down that certain creek (name unknown) running immediately west of Hopper's house in Little Antelope Valley, Mono Co., Cal., and in a northeasterly direction to the above first named ranch, of said Lloyd Goodnow, situated in said Antelope Valley, Mono Co., Cal., the waters of said creek being used on said ranch, for household, domestic and farming purposes, and or watering cattle; and together, also with the ditch, dug, constructed and used for the purpose of conducting the waters of the said last named creek to the said ranch and premises last named.

Also all the right, title and interest of said Lloyd Goodnow, of, in and to that certain tract of land situate, lying and being in said Mono county, together with the improvements thereon, consisting of houses, barns, buildings and other improvements, known as and particularly described as the E. ½ of the S. E. ¼ of Section 21, T. 7 N., R. 23 E., M. D. B. and M., and the E. ½ of the N. E. ¼ of Section 28, T. 7 N., R. 23 E., M. D. B. and M., containing 160 acres.

Also all right, title and interest of said Lloyd Goodnow of, in and to that certain Franchise and Toll Road, granted to him by the Board of Supervisors of said Mono county, by deed which is recorded in the County Recorder's office of said county, in Book "F" of Deeds, at page 4 5, being the franchise and right to use the said road and collect tolls thereon, in accordance with said deed, on that certain highway commencing at a point where the road leading from the town of Bridgeport, California, to the town of Sonora, Chilton's, crosses the Little West Walker River; thence through said Antelope Valley, Mono county, Cal., to the State line of California and Nevada; said highway being a part of the Mono county road leading from said town of Bridgeport to Carson City, Nevada, through said Antelope Valley; and being the unexpired term of said franchise, the same having been granted for ten (10) years from May 14th, 1879, and for a more particular description of the same reference is hereby made to said record in said Book "F," at page 495.

The following is a description of the said personal property so to be sold as aforesaid, viz: 12 head of horses and colts; 10 head of stock cattle; 13 head of hogs; 2 wagons, 1 buckboard; 3 sets of harness; one lot of farming tools, consisting of plows, harrows, forks, rakes, and sundry agricultural implements; one set of blacksmith tools; a lot of household furniture, consisting of beds, bedsteads, chairs, stoves, and sundry other kitchen and household goods.

Terms and conditions of sale: Cash, gold coin of the United States of America, ten per cent. of the purchase money to be paid to the auctioneer on the day of sale, balance on confirmation of sale by said Superior Court. Deeds at expense of purchasers.

Manufacturer of ACORN DRESS SHIRTS, Collars, Cuff Shirt Fronts, Ladies' Collars and Lace Neckwear,

ALBANY, N. Y.

THIS IS THE "WONDER SHIRT"

The latest shirt issued under the "Acorn" Brand is "THE WONDER," and it is also the best shirt ever made for the Trade.

The following are some of its principal points of excellence, a printed list of which is attached to each shirt:

1st—It has the finest and heaviest muslin ever put in a shirt, (Utica Nonpariel improved).

2—It has a 3-ply linen bosom.

3—It is of extra length.

4—It is reinforced, both back and front, extending and meeting under the arm where most needed.

5—It has the Tomlinson patent endless facing.

6—It is custom make and finish.

7—It cannot break or tear anywhere.

Like the Deacon's "one-hoss shay," it has no weak spot, and will never "give" anywhere; but, at the end of scores of years, it will dissolve into space—not a thread broken or a seam started.

Fathers will bequeath these shirts, purchased in early manhood, a priceless legacy to their children.

We expect a large demand for them to place in the corner stones of linen structures as evidence of the greatest triumph of modern civilization.

We are taking steps to put this crowning achievement of art into the "Acorn" agencies in London, Paris, Berlin, St. Petersburg and Constantinople, when it can not fail of instant and permanent success.

LOCAL INTELLIGENCE.

THE FOURTH.

The National Holiday was appropriately observed in Bridgeport. The town was in its holiday attire, the Court House and all the business houses being decorated with flags and evergreens. On Tuesday Postmaster Hays threw to the breeze a large and handsome American flag, the handiwork of Mrs. Hays. Many visitors arrived on Tuesday afternoon from all parts of the county, so that on Tuesday evening the town was unusually lively. The Committee of Arrangements had a canvas covered arbor erected on the east side of Bryant's Hall for the barbecue. Two long tables were spread, at which the multitude appeased the cravings of the inner man. At 10:30 the Bridgeport Brass Band played a couple of lively pieces in front of Bryant's Hall—the signal for the assembling. At 11 o'clock the Hall being well filled, the assembly was called to order by J. D. Murphey, of the Committee, who introduced the President of the Day, Hon. W. H. Virden, who made a few introductory remarks, after which the Band played "Hail Columbia." The Bridgeport Glee Club then sang the "Star Spangled Banner." Wat. Morgan was then introduced and read the Declaration of Independence, and read it well. The Brass Band then played the "Red, White and Blue," after which William T. Elliott recited "Drake's Address to the American Flag" in a masterly manner, eliciting much applause. The Glee Club then sang "Our Flag and the Union Forever," after which Richard S. Miner was introduced and delivered a short but pleasing oration. The Band then played "The Star Spangled Banner," when the exercises closed with the singing of "America" by the Glee Club. President Virden thanked our visiting friends for their attendance, and invited all to adjourn to the arbor and partake of the substantials therein set forth. The barbecue exercises occupied a couple of hours, after which the tables were given up to the Indians, the Piutes and Washoes being on hand, as usual, in full force.

The afternoon sports were inaugurated with a race between boys under 12 years, which was won by James Kirkwood, Ed. Brandon taking second money. Four little girls then ran, Lottie Towle capturing the first money, and Maud Stewart second. Four older girls then ran, Susie Gurney coming in first and Gertie Towle second.—For boys over 12 years, Arthur Allen, Frank Hughes and Willie Sinclair started. Frank Hughes won, with a tie between Allen and Sinclair, who had another trial, Sinclair capturing the money. Six little tots then ran, J. A. Schell's little boy coming in first. Four little Indian boys then ran a good race, each getting some of the "gate money." Four Piute squaws were then trotted out, and ran well. Lucy getting away with enough to buy a calico dress. This concluded the foot racing under the auspices of the Committee, but later in the afternoon there were several private running matches between our "young bloods." There were several horse races, but the principal one was between G. B. Day's black horse; C. M. Stewart's "King," and T. B. Rickey's black horse. Day's won easily, with "King" second, the Antelope horse bringing up the rear. Considerable money changed hands on this race.

In the evening there was a display of fireworks on Court House Square that was unlooked for. A stand had been erected from which the display was to take place. After a few rockets and Roman candles had been sent off, the fireworks on the stand caught fire, and for a short time there was a lively bombardment, and a hasty scattering of the crowd. Fortunately no one was injured, and most of the rockets were saved, so all were not lost. Had it not been for this accident the display would have been the finest we have had in this town. Early in the evening a fire balloon was sent up. It floated away toward Bodie, but soon caught fire and dropped on the mountain.

After the "rockets red glare" had subsided Bryant's Hall was quickly filled, the grand march struck up and the floor was soon occupied by impatient dancers. The Summers Bros. furnished the music and dancing was continued without intermission, excepting for supper at the Allen House, till daylight.

The celebration, as an entirety, was a success, and our visitors expressed themselves as well pleased with their entertainment. Everything passed off pleasantly, there having been no drunkenness or disturbance of any kind to mar the pleasures of the Day.

LIBERAL.—Thos. B. Rickey presented a 400-pound two-year old to the Fourth Committee for the barbecue, and John Devan gave two "innocent sheep. These gentlemen will accept the thanks of our people, and we hope they will have thousands of cattle and sheep on next Fourth of July.

THE SUPERVISORS.—The proceedings of the Board of Supervisors will be found on the editorial page.

Leulla Titus, A. Garrard, Guardian, vs. A. Pettibone. Demurrer set for argument Aug. 20, at 10 A. M.

Personal.

Joseph Carney and son, John, came up from Antelope on Sunday and spent the Fourth here.

Fred Hardy, of Antelope, came up on Monday and returned on Tuesday.

Wm. Roush and Chas. Fitzgerald, of Bodie, were here on Sunday.

C. A. Schuman was here the first of the week.

Superintendent Hampton returned from his Inyo trip on Saturday evening last.

Wilson Butler, of Bodie, came over on Monday, returning on Tuesday.

William Ball, of Aurora, is here, rusticating.

Wm. Onkst and wife, of Lundy, were here several days this week.

A large number of friends from the outside were here on the Fourth, whose names we have not room for.

"UP WITH THE FLAG."—Agreeably with the suggestion of that old Veteran, General Sherman, "that every school house in the United States should have an American flag and the children taught to revere it," the citizens of Bridgeport will in due time present a fine flag to be displayed on the School House on all proper occasions.—The Trustees will put up a flag pole on the House. We suggest to the citizens of other Districts to do likewise.

SCHOOL CENSUS.—The following is from Superintendent Hampton's Annual Report to State Superintendent Hoitt: Total number of census children in the county, 318; number who have attended public schools, 253; negro children, 1; children under 5 years, 131. Bodie is credited with 112; Bridgeport, 53; Benton, 28; North Antelope, 11; Antelope, 25; South Antelope, 29; Lundy, 44; Clinton, 16. There were only 10 births during the year, but the Superintendent does not state why it is thusly.

SCHOOL TRUSTEES.—The following newly elected School Trustees entered on the discharge of their duties on Monday: Antelope, George Chichester; North Antelope, Mrs. Ann Rickey and Wm. Radley; South Antelope, John H. Connell; Benton, Wm. H. Shimmin and J. F. Milner; Bodie, Dr. David Walker; Bridgeport, W. O. Parker and M. M. Waltz; Clinton, J. H. Sheehan; Lundy, J. F. McLaughlin.

COMPROMISED.—We learn that W. O. Parker, attorney for the citizens of Lundy in the Boomershine town site controversy, has effected a compromise with the Boomershine interest, which will cost the citizens of that town less than a legal fight would. We are glad that this matter, which has been hanging on for years, is at last settled amicably.

A NEW FLAG.—The first business our Board of Supervisors did on Monday was the ordering of a new flag for the Court House, to be procured by Supervisor Boone at a cost not exceeding $40. Janitor Crowell will raise the old one for a storm flag.

COUNTY TREASURY.—On the 3d inst. A. F. Hector, Chairman of the Board of Supervisors, District Attorney Virden, and Auditor Kister counted the moneys in the Treasury and found therein what actually ought to have been there—$30,348 45.

THE weather is warm enough.

Some of the best dressed gentlemen of Mono county are indebted to Silas B. Smith, of Bodie, for their stylish appearance. He has the agency for some of the finest tailoring establishments in the East. His samples for the Spring and Summer are unsurpassed. He displays over 2,000 different patterns of cloth. His experience with the tape line for many years insures a good fit every time. When in Bodie call on him and inspect the goods.

SHOPPING BY MAIL!

THERE CAN NO LONGER BE ANY DOUBT THAT SHOPPING BY MAIL IS PROFITABLE. THOUSANDS THROUGHOUT THE UNITED STATES ARE DOING IT TO THEIR BENEFIT AND SATISFACTION, AND THE LIST CONTINUES TO SWELL. OUR FACILITIES FOR HANDLING THIS CLASS TRADE ARE UNEXCELLED BY ANY HOUSE WEST OF THE MISSISSIPPI. AN ENTIRE FLOOR OF OUR MAMMOTH THREE-STORY BUILDING IS DEVOTED SOLELY TO THIS DEPARTMENT, AND WE HAVE SPARED NO EFFORT TO THE END THAT OUT-OF-TOWN CUSTOMERS MIGHT HAVE THE Same Advantages as Residents.

We possess unequalled advantages in buying, because we deal direct with the manufacturer. Being one of HALE'S Seven California Stores, we thereby obtain advantages in values which result from buying in large quantities; for it must be seen that the quantity of goods which these stores consume in the aggregate is enormous.

A Good Word for the Dress Coat.

As to the much abused steel-pen coat, it is not beautiful, certainly. But properly constructed, as our forefathers wore it, made double-breasted and to button across the chest, it is a remarkably good workday garment, and I wonder very much it has gone out of fashion for morning wear. For any kind of bodily work or exercise it is absolutely unrivaled. It has no useless skirts to flop about and impede the movements, and the pockets, well out of the way, are only inconvenient when you sit down. It is the best walking coat ever devised.

Truth Stranger Than Fiction.

So long back as 1871, William Nicholls lost an anchor on a reef of one of the New Hebrides Islands. He chartered a cutter to go to the rescue of his vessel, and hired Frederick Maddocks as his master.

Arrived at the island where the wreck occurred, the vessel was found intact. Nicholls landed, and while he was ashore Maddocks succeeded in getting the vessel off the reef, and sailed away with her, leaving her owner alone in the Hebrides.

Arrested, tried and acquitted, and brought back to civilization, and, after fifteen years, he stood in the box confronting Maddocks in the dock.

"Tea" Not Forthcoming.

One of the city's school examiners wished to elicit the word "tea" from a class of boys in an up-town school recently. So he asked them in rotation "What do you drink after supper?" and received the answers coffee, beer, chocolate, but the word tea was not forthcoming.

At last he queried, "What do I take after supper?"

"Your hat," the boys yelled in return.

When the Wallet Really Was.

Bagley (confidentially to pickpocket on the back platform): "My good fellow, I wish you wouldn't try that."

Pickpocket (in great trepidation): "Sir! A—I—"

Bagley (soothingly): "There, there, don't apologize. You've been trying my pocket, and I think it my duty to inform you that the wallet you are fingering is filled with bills which I've been trying to collect for six months, and I don't believe you can do any better."—[Philadelphia Call.

—The mineral resources of Maine are again attracting attention. A paper there reports that Boston parties contemplate purchasing and starting the Bluehill copper mines. A company was organized at Portland last week to develop a promising gold and silver vein in Avon and the Kennebec and Portland Coal Company has given orders to open a coal mine at the mouth of the Kennebec."

—It has been estimated by a prominent railroad official that fifty tramps are killed annually on the railroads of this country while attempting to steal rides or when walking on the tracks. The railroad tramps are a constant menace to the safety of travellers, as well as to the property of the companies as many of them do not hesitate to cause accidents by turning switches, burning bridges and other devices.

JULY 7, 1888.

BEAUTY AT THE COUNTER.

The Daily Life of Girls Who Serve in Metropolitan Stores.

Varied in character, in ability, in circumstances, in tastes, and accomplishments, girls who stand behind the counters in all New York stores are subjected to the same rules, discipline and restraints.

At 8 o'clock they flock to their respective places and begin work, which continues until lunch time. The lunch hour begins at half-past 11 or 12, and by half-past 2 all have had their half hour's rest.

In all the large stores lunch rooms are provided, where girls may have hot tea or coffee, and where milk and fruit are also sold. At Macy's the lunch room seats some 200 girls, and in addition to the tea and coffee, hot rolls, eclaires, pastry, cakes, and the sweets dear to feminine hearts are sold the same as in the ladies' restaurant below, only at nominal rates—a cup of good coffee costing only three cents, and other things in the same ratio.

The girls usually bring their lunch from home, and leave it in one of the boxes which line one side of the large, well-ventilated room. Here is a novel stuffed in one box, "The Dark Secret," "The Bandit's Bride," "Barriers Burned Away," or "He fell in Love with His Wife." In another box a newspaper is thrust, waiting for the midday rest; there a piece of fancy work is folded away, or a bit of knitting or crochet work which, when the lunch is dispatched, is brought forth, and while the swift, deft fingers fly the clattering tongue keeps up a merry accompaniment.

The lunch counter is liberally patronized, few girls eating without the cup of warm tea or coffee or a glass of milk. One lunches off two or three eclaires, reading her novel as she munches them; another absorbs the last number of a thrilling continued story as indigestible and delicious as the bit of pastry she devours at the same time; one tiny cash girl, with her little dish of milk beside her, eats only ginger cookies, but a great many of them, for her noonday meal. Twice each week oyster stew is cooked for them, and other changes in their bill of fare are frequently made.

In this store, too, a society is established among the girls, to which each pays seven cents a week, and from which each receive $5 per week in case of accident or sickness.

The average age of girls entering the business is 14, but many come in much younger, and they remain six, ten, and even fifteen years, unless they marry. Some wed their associates and co-laborers, others make very excellent marriages outside among their acquaintances, and a few marry customers with whom they have become acquainted in the store, but these are exceptional cases, for there is little chance for conversation when on duty.

THRIFTY ISRAEL.

What Julian Hawthorne Observed in a Police Court.

One of the most unattractive-looking Hebrews I ever saw came up, and the Justice said:

"I have here an order committing your father-in-law to the poorhouse at his own request. He is over eighty years old. He has tried to get work: he says you refuse to support him. You are earning $20 a week and your son $10. You have no one else dependent on you but your wife. Do you wish to have your father-in-law sent to the workhouse?"

The son-in-law rubbing his forefinger along the side of his nose, as he leaned his elbow on the desk, said that the old man was a nuisance and no good, and came round to the house drunk, and expected to be supported.

"I have known the man twenty years," replied the Judge, "he used to work under me. I never knew him to be addicted to liquor." And then he repeated, "Do you wish him sent to the poorhouse?"

At last the son-in-law reluctantly consented to take the old man back. But I should have preferred the poorhouse, I think.

The Drummer Was Left.

A Scotch story is that of a diminutive drummer in a local brass band who was in the habit, when out parading with his comrades, of walking by sound and not by sight, owing to his drum being so high that he was unable to see over it.

The band on Saturday afternoon paraded usually in one direction, but the other day the leader thought he would change the route a little and turned down a by street. The drummer, unaware of this movement, kept on his accustomed way drumming away as hard as ever he could.

By and by, after finishing his part, and not hearing the others, he stopped, and pushed his drum aside to see what was the matter. His astonishment may be imagined at finding that he was alone.

"Hae!" he cried to some bystanders, "has ony o' ye seen a band hereabout?"—Argonaut.

Question of Grammar for Settlement.

Our friends of the Portsmouth Penny Post are in doubt as to what form of the verb should follow measles, and being a fair-minded lot of people they offer their subscribers the choice between "measles are prevalent" and "measles is prevalent."

If we may be allowed a suggestion, it would be in effect a recommendation that our Portsmouth friends buy a dictionary to use in grave emergencies. Here in Dover the best schoolmarm authority indorses the dictionaries which call measles a noun of singular number, and a boy might as well have the measles as to tell his teacher that measles are prevalent.

By chance we hear of a remark quite apropos, made recently by a Sawyer school boy. Said he:

"'Measles are prevalent' isn't correct; you should say say 'they is prevalent.'"—Dover (N. H.) Times.

Omaha's Primitive Customs.

Chicago Girl—"You have been engaged three years? How primitive! Why in Chicago long engagements are very unfashionable. Three years? Time thrown away."

Omaha Girl—"Oh a year or so, more or less, doesn't matter here. When we get married we stay married."

Just the Wrong Thing To Say.

Mr. S. who has recently married a young wife)—"Why, good evening, Mrs. Brown. Where is your husband?"

"Mrs. Brown (who has seen her best days)—"Oh! he wouldn't come; I never can get him out."

Mr. S. (who is always blundering)—"Well, perhaps if he had a young, fascinating wife he would be tempted to come out oftener."

A SLEEPING CAR.

Most of Them Don't Make the Best of the Situation—The Woman Who Did.

How many women are there who understand the successful combination of comparative comfort and a sleeping car? The commercial drummer will say none; the man with an ingenious wife may say one in a hundred; the truth probably lies in a middle statement—about one in a thousand.

As a rule, the spectacle of a woman endeavoring to arrange herself for the night in a sleeper is either ludicrous or pitiable according to the nature of the observer.

If she is unaccustomed to traveling by rail at night, and is a person of ordinary self-possession, she goes at it with an evident belief that she can make all necessary changes of toilet in the berth; so in she climbs laboriously. Then she skoots around a while, knocks her head against the upper berth several times, and gets her skirts wound tightly about her limbs in a most inextricable fashion. It is only when she finds herself cleaning her muddy overshoes on her new spring sacque that she concludes the thing impracticable.

Then she climbs out again, stands facing the berth, buttons the curtains behind her, and resumes operations. The porter comes along, and, ignorant of her presence, jostles her rudely, while other passengers bang their valises unceremoniously against her. To add to the displeasure of the situation, the curtains slip apart at the most inopportune moment.

If she is not a very strong-minded person she is apt to give up the fight in disgust, and tumble in frock and corsets and all, only to lie awake two thirds of the night, indulge in nightmare with smash-up trimmings the other third, and rise very early with a splitting headache, bad temper, and a fervent wish she had never left home.

This is the rule, and happy the man who encounters the exception, for he will treasure her ever in his memory as the paragon of her sex.

The exception was encountered one night last week. She was alone, and a passenger on the Chicago express which left the Grand Central depot at 6 o'clock P. M. Her quality was not made apparent until about fifty miles of Albany. Then it became evident that she regarded comfort as superior to the proprieties every time.

Her berth being prepared, with a look of quiet determination she stood up and drew the curtain behind her; not close enough however to embarrass her movements.

Off came her waist; then she stepped out of her dress skirt, and folding both neatly, stowed them away. Next her corsets came off. Then she pinned a shawl around her shoulders, threw aside the curtain and came forth. Reaching her bag, she secured brush, comb and hand glass, and proceeded coolly to arrange her hair as was her wont in her own boudoir.

Thus far the men in the car had done their whole duty by looking the other way; but they gave it up when she deliberately took out all her hairpins, removed an elaborate switch, attached it to the hook at the side of the berth and combed it out carefully. This done she folded it up, put it away, got into bed, took off the shawl and in ten minutes was softly snoring.

Then the men went into their own compartment, lighted fresh cigars, passed round a flask and wondered who might be the fortunate possessor of such a woman.—New York Sun.

A Maine Fish Story.

An ardent sportsman of Bangor was cutting through the ice on the pond preparatory to a day's sport, using a chisel with a handle like a shovel, which by accident slipped from his grasp and disappeared in about six fathoms of water. He mourned his loss for it meant harder work to-morrow to get through the ice without it.

Nothing daunted he prepared his line and placed on the hook a plump live shiner and returned to camp to relate his misfortune. Trying his line shortly after, his first impression was that he had hooked a Chinaman, so hard did it pull, but when he had landed his catch imagine his surprise to find that he not only had a fine three-pound trout, but also the lost chisel.

The blade had stuck upright in the mud, the shiner had swam through the hole in the handle, the trout seized him and wound himself up around the handle, making the capture possible, providing the line held as it did.—Bangor Commercial.

The Girls' One Chance.

The right of young ladies to propose in leap year is thus explained.

It owes its origin to an act of the Scotch Parliament in the year 1228. It was then ordained that during the reign of Margaret of Scotland, "every maiden lady of both high and low degree shall have liberty to speak to the man she likes. If he refuses to take her to be his wife, he shall be mulct in the sum of £100 or less, as his estate shall be, except and always if he can make it appear that he is betrothed to another woman, then he shall be free."

The existence of this privilege, without restriction to time or period, was found inconvenient, and so it was rendered only available once in four years, during leap year, when the month of February numbers twenty-nine days to set the calendar right.

Not Keeping Faith.

"John, dear," said a young wife, "you know we agreed never to have any secrets from each other."

"Yes, darling," replied John uneasily.

"And you know that last night, when I asked you for a little money, you said that all you had was a plugged twenty-cent piece and a bunch of keys."

"Yes, love."

"Well, I found $15 in one of your inside pockets this morning, John."

Black Eyes Made White.

What produces a black eye is the breaking of two capillaries, or smaller blood vessels, causing an infiltration of blood in the tissues around the eye.

When the blow is first received the application of cold will check any further flow, but this should be quickly followed by the application of hot water to cause absorption.—American Analyst.

In a More Delicate Form.

A little girl seeing her mother petting and caressing another child began to show unmistakable signs of jealousy. Her mother remarked:

"Why, Sadie, I believe you are jealous."

"No, mamma," she replied, indignantly, "I'm not jealous, but I don't feel comfable."—Philadelphia Record.

Try It, Girls.

American girls can learn to do almost anything, but we have never seen one who could whistle Gottschalk's "Last Hope," while a cross-eyed man was looking at her.—Springfield Union.

MEDICAL.

WHAT AILS YOU?

Do you feel dull, languid, low-spirited, lifeless, and indescribably miserable, both physically and mentally; experience a sense of fullness or bloating after eating, or of "goneness," or emptiness of stomach in the morning, tongue coated, bitter or bad taste in mouth, irregular appetite, dizziness, frequent headaches, blurred eyesight, "floating specks" before the eyes, nervous prostration or exhaustion, irritability of temper, hot flushes, alternating with chilly sensations, sharp, biting, transient pains here and there, cold feet, drowsiness after meals, wakefulness, or disturbed and unrefreshing sleep, constant, indescribable feeling of dread, or of impending calamity?

If you have all, or any considerable number of these symptoms, you are suffering from that most common of American maladies—Bilious Dyspepsia, or Torpid Liver, associated with Dyspepsia, or Indigestion. The more complicated your disease has become, the greater the number and diversity of symptoms. No matter what stage it has reached, Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery will subdue it, if taken according to directions for a reasonable length of time. If not cured, complications multiply and Consumption of the Lungs, Skin Diseases, Heart Disease, Rheumatism, Kidney Disease, or other grave maladies are quite liable to set in and, sooner or later, induce a fatal termination.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery acts powerfully upon the Liver, and through that great blood-purifying organ, cleanses the system of all blood-taints and impurities, from whatever cause arising. It is equally efficacious in acting upon the Kidneys, and other excretory organs, cleansing, strengthening, and healing their diseases. As an appetizing, restorative tonic, it promotes digestion and nutrition, thereby building up both flesh and strength. In malarial districts, this wonderful medicine has gained great celebrity in curing Fever and Ague, Chills and Fever, Dumb Ague, and kindred diseases.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery

CURES ALL HUMORS,

from a common Blotch, or Eruption, to the worst Scrofula. Salt-rheum, "Fever-sores," Scaly or Rough Skin, in short, all diseases caused by bad blood are conquered by this powerful, purifying, and invigorating medicine. Great Eating Ulcers rapidly heal under its benign influence. Especially has it manifested its potency in curing Tetter, Eczema, Erysipelas, Boils, Carbuncles, Sore Eyes, Scrofulous Sores and Swellings, Hip-joint Disease, "White Swellings," Goitre, or "Thick Neck," and Enlarged Glands. Send ten cents in stamps for a large Treatise, with colored plates, on Skin Diseases, or the same amount for a Treatise on Scrofulous Affections.

"FOR THE BLOOD IS THE LIFE."

Thoroughly cleanse it by using Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, and good digestion, a fair skin, buoyant spirits, vital strength and bodily health will be established.

CONSUMPTION,

which is Scrofula of the Lungs, is arrested and cured by this remedy, if taken in the earlier stages of the disease. From its marvelous power over this terribly fatal disease, when first offering this now world-famed remedy to the public, Dr. Pierce thought seriously of calling it his "CONSUMPTION CURE," but abandoned that name as too restrictive for a medicine which, from its wonderful combination of tonic, or strengthening, alterative, or blood-cleansing, anti-bilious, pectoral, and nutritive properties, is unequaled, not only as a remedy for Consumption, but for all Chronic Diseases of the Liver, Blood, and Lungs.

For Weak Lungs, Spitting of Blood, Shortness of Breath, Chronic Nasal Catarrh, Bronchitis, Asthma, Severe Coughs, and kindred affections, it is an efficient remedy.

Sold by Druggists, at $1.00, or Six Bottles for $5.00.

INVENTION has revolutionized the world during the last half century. Not least among the wonders of inventive progress is a method and system of work that can be performed all over the country without separating the workers from their homes. Pay liberal; any one can do the work; either sex, young or old; no special ability required. Capital not needed; you are started free. Cut this out and return to us and we will send you free, something of great value and importance to you, that will start you in business, which will bring you in more money right away, than anything else in the world. GRAND OUTFIT FREE. Address True & Co., Augusta, Maine.

DEEP Sea Wonders exist in the sands of forms, but are surpassed by the marvels of invention. Those who are in need of profitable work that can be done while living at home should at once send their address to Hallett & Co., Portland, Maine, and receive free full information how either sex, of all ages, can earn from $5 to $25 per day and upwards wherever they live. You are started free. Capital not required. Some have made over $50 in a single day at this work. All succeed.
